THE BRITISH POLITICAL CRISIS.

ATTRIBUTED TO MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

Will there be a New Premier?

December 2, 1.40 p.m.
The Times Lobby correspondent says that important political developments are imminent. There will be trial of strength between Parliament and the Cabinet next week with debates on the Vote of Credit, the Man Power and National Fooding questions. Some of the Peers have decided to press for a secret session of the House of Lords to discuss the whole war position.

A New War Council.

December 2, 1.40 p.m.
The Daily Chronicle says that the rumors of a drastic reconstruction of the Cabinet are unfounded, but remarks that the new War Council will probably consist of Mr. Asquith, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Balfour, with Admiral Jellicoe and General Sir William Robertson. If, as is likely, Sir Edward Carson joins the Cabinet as a Minister without portfolio, he will become a member of the War Council. It is unlikely that Lord Fisher will join the War Council, because he recently declined to go to the Admiralty in an advisory capacity.

Cause of the Crisis.

December 3, 5.55 a.m.
The Weekly Dispatch says that the cause of the crisis was Mr. Lloyd George's proposal to form a small War Council, including Sir Edward Carson, but excluding Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour. The Observer says that certain Ministers, principally Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law, are resolved not to continue in office under the present terms. It was rumored last evening that both had resigned. The Observer advocates that an Admiral be appointed First Lord, replacing Mr. Balfour.

Mr. Lloyd George, Premier?

December 3, 5.55 a.m.
The Sunday Times says that Sir Edward Carson is quite willing to join a Cabinet headed by Mr. Lloyd George.

Statement Expected To-day.

December 3, 9.00 p.m.
To-night's papers state that the Government crisis is averted. It is apparent that Mr. Lloyd George's resignation has not yet been accepted. Mr. Asquith consulted Mr. Lloyd George in the afternoon and evening, and also Mr. Bonar Law, the Earl of Crewe and the Hon. Mr. E. S. Montagu. It is expected that the Premier will make a statement in the House of Commons to-morrow.

AUSTRALIA'S DETERMINATION UNSHAKEN.

December 1, 8.25 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Melbourne states that during the no-confidence debate, Mr. Hughes said the Government intended to concentrate on the continuance of Australia's war efforts both in men and material, despite the referendum result. A permanent recruiting organization under a Director would be established, supplementing voluntary efforts. In the House of Representatives, Mr. Cook promised that the Opposition would cordially support the Government in prosecuting and finishing the war to the end.

DUTCH MINISTER RESIGNS.

December 1, 8.25 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at the Hague says that the Finance Minister has resigned following the First Chamber's rejection of the inheritance tax.

GERMAN COMPULSION BILL CARRIED.

A Heated Reichstag Discussion.

December 3, 3.10 a.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam says the Reichstag has passed the third reading of the Compulsion Bill by 235 votes to 19, after a heated discussion, a section of the Socialists denouncing the enslavement of workmen and the deportations of Belgians.

Belgians Described as "Idle and Turbulent."

December 3, 3.10 a.m.
In the Reichstag, the Socialists, Herr Haun and Herr Dittmann, summoned the Government to restore the freedom of the workmen especially the Belgians, whose deportation was contrary to the Hague Convention, and in defiance of General von Bismarck's promise. Dr. von Helfferich deplored the discussion, which would have a bad effect on the troops at the front, and asserted that the forcing of the Belgians to work was in accordance with international law. It was intolerable that an idle and turbulent population should remain in the war zone.

The Kaiser Speaks.

December 3, 12.15 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam says that the Kaiser has telegraphed to the Chancellor his great delight at the adoption of civilian service. A people filled with such a uniform determination to make every sacrifice of blood, treasure and labour, for a victorious defence of the Fatherland, must maintain against everyone their place among the civilized nations which they had gained by intelligence, industry and moral strength; and they cannot be conquered.

AMERICA AND BELGIAN DEPORTATIONS.

December 3, 3.10 a.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Washington says that Mr. Gerard, U.S. Ambassador, returns to Berlin on December 5. He is instructed to emphasize the deep concern of the United States at the Belgian deportations.

THE GREEK CRISIS.

HOW KING CONSTANTINE BROKE HIS PROMISE.

CONFLICTS BETWEEN GREEK AND ALLIED TROOPS.

December 3, 3.10 a.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Athens, telegraphing on the afternoon of the 2nd inst., states that six hundred Anglo-French marines marched out of Zappelon with all equipment, under a strong Greek guard, en route to the Piræus. The neighbouring streets were cleared to prevent a demonstration against the Evzones. A detachment of Italian marines, who yesterday took refuge in the Italian Archaeological School, was permitted to quietly depart, being given a Greek escort, on the intervention of the Italian Minister.

A Pitiable Monarch.

December 3, 10.30 a.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Athens states that the King's position is pitiable. He is forced to surrender to the Allies the bulk of Greece's war material and guns as a compensation for those delivered to the Bulgarians and the Germans, receiving an indemnity therefor. His Majesty stipulated that Greece should maintain her neutrality and agreed that Greek volunteers should be free to fight Greece's enemy. The King did not observe the engagement and was gradually overwhelmed by hostility. Excited by the intrigues of the Germans and the Government refused to ratify the King's written engagement.

Allied Troops Attacked by Greeks.

December 3, 1.35 p.m.
Telegrams from Athens leave the situation obscure. Present indications are that the Allied detachments ashore were only landed as a measure of precaution and were ordered not to forcibly seize the promised material. Meanwhile Greek troops on the 1st inst. assumed the aggressive and attacked the detachments with rifles and machine-guns, a number being killed and wounded. Thereupon, French, British and Italian blue-jackets and French troops landed. Collisions then occurred at several points.

Greek troops fired on the British and Italians, while two cannon shots were fired from an adjacent hill at Zappelon, where Admiral Fournet and the British and French Ministers, with French blue-jackets, were. Afterwards machine-guns opened fire, many casualties being inflicted. Zappelon did not reply, but the fleet fired a few shots to silence the Greek cannon. What then happened is not stated. A despatch announcing the withdrawal of the Allies to the Piræus, dated Saturday afternoon, is the last received.

French Demand for Punishment of Greeks.

December 3, 6.25 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Paris says that the Greek Minister has resigned in consequence of the events at Athens, at which the newspapers are most indignant. They demand a speedy and unforgettable punishment of the Greek Government for the treacherous murders of French sailors and soldiers.

Embargo on Greek Ships.

December 3, 8.45 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Paris says that the Allies have decided to place an embargo on all Greek ships lying in the Allied ports. Greece is, therefore, in a state of blockade.

SUBMARINE WARFARE.

More Vessels Sunk.

December 3, 5.00 p.m.
Among the latest sinkings reported are the steamers Barcombe (British), and Skjelduff (Norwegian), and the sailing ship Brainsis (French). The British steamer Istur is also believed to be sunk. Reuter's correspondent at Copenhagen says that a German submarine has torpedoed the Swedish steamer Douglas and towed the crew in boats to the coast of Jutland, where Danish fishermen picked them up.

Dutch Lifer Sunk.

December 2, 1.00 p.m.
The s.s. Kediri, a Rotterdam Lloyd liner, homeward bound from the Dutch East Indies, has been sunk. The estimated loss is $800,000 and a fall on the Dutch insurance market is expected. German insurance offices operating there participate in the loss. Further sinkings reported are: The steamers Esholm (Danish), and Njæl (Norwegian), two British schooners, a Russian schooner and a French sailing ship.

AMERICA AND ALLIED TREASURY BILLS.

December 2, 1.00 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at New York says it is announced that Messrs. Morgan have withdrawn the proposed sale of Anglo-French Treasury Bills.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

British Raid Enemy Trenches.

December 3, 4.00 p.m.
General Sir Douglas Haig, says:—We raided trenches southward of Faguisart and eastward of Ypres.

Artillery and Aerial Work.

December 3, 4.00 p.m.
A French communique says:—There is an intense artillery duel at Bureaux, but there is quiet elsewhere. Seven of our aeroplanes at night heavily bombed factories at Thionville and bangalore and other works at Metz. The Germans again fired some heavy shells in the direction of Nancy.

THE RUMANIAN SITUATION.

A GREAT BATTLE DEVELOPING.

GENERAL BRUSILOFF'S STRATEGIC MOVE.

December 3, 2.05 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam says that General von Tobolsky and Weidenbach, the ex-Commander of the Eight Rumanian Corps, has been appointed Governor of the occupied part of Bessarabia. Other Central Powers are represented in the Administration.

Rumanian Army Still Intact.

December 2, 12.25 p.m.
General Brusiloff is employing fresh troops and countless guns in defying the season of snow, with the evident intention of penetrating into Hungary and getting at the rear of General von Falkenhayn. But the region is most difficult for the operation of masses of troops. It is composed wholly of rugged mountains, densely wooded and thinly populated, and lacking communications.

The fact that a Berlin communique mentions that General von Mackensen is commanding in Rumania is regarded as showing that Falkenhayn has been transferred elsewhere. The enemy is now threatening Bukharest also on the south-east, having seized the village of Gostinai, nineteen miles distant. The Rumanian Army is still intact with heavy guns and munitions.

Russian and Rumanian Successes.

December 3, 9.35 p.m.
A Russian official announcement says:—In Transylvania, we successfully attacked in the valleys of the Rivers Tiras and Suly, and occupied Suly. We took eight hundred prisoners. In the Danube-Argis valley the fighting is assuming the character of a great battle. The Rumanians, outflanked by cavalry from the south, are retiring south-eastward. The Rumanians south of Bukharest, with the assistance of the arriving Russians, are successfully developing operations. A number of prisoners and at least twenty-six guns have been captured.

Rumanians Take Prisoners.

December 3, 9.35 p.m.
A Rumanian official message says:—In the course of various attacks in Moldavia and North Wallachia, we took prisoner 1800 men. On the Western front, we retired towards Tula and defeated and drove back southwards a division of Turks. The main body of Germans and Bulgars is in the region of Glavicioc and Neaglov.

BUDGET PROSPECTS.

December 2, 1.30 p.m.
Mr. McKenna, in a written reply, in the House of Commons, to a question, anticipates that the Budget estimate of expenditure will be materially increased, but nevertheless he does not contemplate any fresh taxation at the present.

AN AWKWARD GERMAN ADMISSION.

December 2, 1.30 p.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam quotes the Berliner Post as saying that Baron Zilditz declares that the Chancellor in 1911 requested the Ministry of the Interior to begin an economic preparation for war.

REPORT ON EGYPTIAN OPERATIONS.

December 1, 3.20 p.m.
The Gazette publishes a despatch from General Murray reporting on the operations in Egypt from June 1 to September 30. It deals chiefly with the decisive defeat of 18,000 Turco-Germans in the Katia district early in August, in connection with which General Murray pays a tribute to the invaluable work of the Imperial Camel Corps, under Lieut. Colonel C. L. Smith, V.O. He also pays tributes to the services of the Bikanir Camel Corps, the Sikh Pioneers for patrolling and reconnoitring, and mentions a number of officers in the Indian Army.

RUSSIAN PREMIER'S DETERMINED SPEECH.

Right to Straits and Constantinople Acknowledged.

December 3, 2.25 a.m.
Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd reports that at the re-opening of the Duma, the Premier, M. Trepoff, made a speech in which he said that Russia would never lay down arms until a complete victory had been attained, whatever difficulties or temporary checks were encountered. The power of the enemy was shaken, but immense efforts were required to definitely break his resistance. He regretted the food transport difficulties in many localities, but said the Government would take measures to firmly establish order behind the armies. He recognized the necessity for vast railway construction, an increase in the production of metals and fuel, the erection of munitions factories and the development of technical education. A Bill would be introduced for compulsory elementary education.

M. Trepoff announced that an Anglo-Franco-Russian agreement was concluded in 1915, to which Italy had adhered, which definitively established the right of Russia to the Straits and Constantinople. He stated that this declaration was made in accord with the Allies, who were absolutely united thereon. After obtaining sovereign possession of a free passage to the Mediterranean, Russia would grant freedom of navigation to Bessarabia.

He emphasized that Russia, besides reconquering the territories occupied by the enemy, must wrest Prussian and Austrian Poland from her enemies and reconstitute a free Poland inseparably united to Russia. M. Trepoff was prevented for three-quarters of an hour from beginning his speech by a hostile demonstration on the part of Socialists and Labourers. A dozen demonstrators were eventually expelled.

OBITUARY.

Sir F. Paolo Testi.

London, Received December 4.
Reuter's correspondent at Rome reports the death of the famous song-writer, Sir F. Paolo Testi, K.O.V.O.
The deceased, who was born at Abruzzi in 1847, was educated at the Conservatory at Naples, and came to England in 1876. He was honoured with the K.O.V.O. decoration in 1908.

SHACKLETON IN NEW ZEALAND.

London, Received Dec. 4.
Reuter's correspondent at Wellington says that Sir Ernest Shackleton has arrived there, but he declines to state his plans.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

MEXICAN FIGHTING.

London, Received Dec. 4.
Reuter's correspondent at Juarez reports that the remnants of the Carranza army have arrived from Chihuahua and state that the army evacuated the town, the streets of which are covered with dead, after "four days" fighting against Villa's army.

MAN-POWER.

Clean Sweep at the War Office.
The following important answer has been given by the Secretary of State for War to a question put down by Sir Henry Dalziel, who inquired if the War Secretary's attention had been called to the number of men of military age who are retained for clerical duties in the War Office:—

Mr. Lloyd George: Yes, sir. My attention has been called to certain statements on this subject. The following facts will give the answer to the question in the most convenient form:—Rather more than a month ago I appointed a special Departmental Committee to take in hand the combining-out of the civilians and soldiers employed in the War Office and the various departments included in it. The Committee have reported to me that as a commencement they have ordered the release on varying dates within the next few weeks of all the members of the civilian staff who are fit for general service and are under the age of 26. This will leave 171 only fit for general service, out of a staff of about 8,200, of whom 4,600 are women. Similar orders are being issued in regard to the military staff (other than commissioned officers), but as to these I am not in a position at the moment to give figures such as those I have quoted above in regard to the civilian staff. As to the commissioned officers the Committee are going through the same process with a view to determining the possibility of the release of as large a number as possible. Having regard to the part which the War Office has to play in the war, I am not sure that it would be safe to go further in this matter, at any rate at present.

Gazetted Lieut. Colonel.
Major D. F. Tulloch, Royal was employed on the staff in India for some years, and took part in the China War, 1900, for which he holds the medal with Lord Rhonda, who as Mr. D.

A. Thomas was on the Lusitania when she was torpedoed, told a good story of how the incident was conveyed to the people of Cardiff by the contents bill of a local paper. It bore the words:-
"Great National Disaster: 'D.A.' Saved." These things will happen at times. It was a London paper which at the time of the Peking troubles proclaimed the streets with the announcement:-
"Good News from China: Forty Missionaries Killed."—London and China Express.Dr. Wu Ting-fang.
Peking, Nov. 24.—The van-guards of Dr. Wu Ting-fang with baggage have arrived in the Capital from Shanghai while the Doctor himself is expected to leave there on the 25th. Dr. Wu will probably remain a couple of days at Tientsin for investigating the Lohsikai affair on his way to the Capital, so as to acquaint himself of the actual situation there. As Baron Haysahi has returned to Peking from Manchuria, the Chenshiatun and the Lohsikai cases will be formally taken up by Dr. Wu for discussion early next month.Count Terauchi's Foreign Policy.
The Yomiuri maintains its im-pugnable attitude towards the Terauchi Cabinet. Nobody will deny the fact, says the Tokyo journal, that Count Terauchi is a militarist statesman, and this fact will be best known to the Premier himself. Anyone who may doubt this assertion should look at Count Terauchi's administration in Korea, in which the marks of militarism are abundantly in evidence. Count Terauchi, however, seems to be ashamed of the fact that he is a militarist, and is making every effort to conceal it. But deprived of the sword he is nothing, as he has not sufficient ability even to carry out the successful administration of Korea, and in this respect he is more an object of commiseration than condemnation.—Peking Daily News.Military Transport.
The Secretary of the War Office announces that the Commissioner-in-Chief of the British Army in France has appointed Sir Eric Geddes to be Inspector-General of Transportation, which post he will hold in addition to his position as Director-General Military Railways in the War Office. In order, therefore, to provide adequately for the conduct of all classes of transport work dealt with in the Department of the D.G.M.R., the Secretary of State for War has appointed Sir W.
Guy Grant, general manager of the Midland Railway, whose services have been placed at his disposal by the board of directors of that railway, to be Deputy Director-General of Military Railways in the War Office.The British Post Office in China.
The British postal agencies in China are to be provided with special stamps, and these will be created by overprinting the existing stamps of Hongkong.
This is quite a new departure for the China Agencies, which have hitherto used Hongkong stamps without any overprint. It appears that the control of these British postal agencies in China was vested until recently in the Hongkong postal administration, but it has now been transferred to the Imperial Government, on whom falls the expense of their maintenance. Fifteen denominations are to be overprinted in the current King George set, namely, the 1, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 20, 25, and 50 cents, 1, 2, 3, 5, and 10 dollars. But for the difficulty of representing the currency in terms of the Chinese postal rates, the overprinting of stamps would no doubt have been overprinted for China, as they have been for the British postal agencies in the Levant and elsewhere.—London and China Express.

A meeting of Indians and Ceylon Tamils held recently at the Birch Club, Ipoh, the Hon. Mr. A. N. Kenion presiding, decided to approach Government for permission to form an Indo-Ceylon unit of Volunteers in Ipoh.

The Siam Turf Club.

The Siam Weekly Mail learns that at a recent Committee Meeting of this Club held in Bangkok it was resolved to change the dates of its first race meeting to December 18, 20, and 22. It was also resolved to change the nomenclature of the horses entering for races 1 and 5 of the First Day to R. B. S. C. "Tubs," Griffin 1916.

The Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Viscount Motono, Ambassador to Petrograd, who arrived at Tokyo on Sunday, visited the Premier at his official residence, Nagata Cho, yesterday morning, says the Kobe Herald of November 21. The ceremony in connection with his appointment as Minister of Foreign Affairs was to take place in the Palace this morning.

Wounded Officers on Rubber Estates.

Although the policy of engaging wounded officers for rubber estates appeared at first sight to have much to recommend it, it is to be feared, says the Malay Mail, that in many cases the experiences the men have gone through have rendered them unfit, either physically or mentally, for work in the Tropics. Already, we learn, four men, who had recently arrived in the F.M.S., have had to be sent home.

The Trans-Pacific Wireless Service.

The Osaka Asahi is in receipt of the following wireless message from Mayor Rolph of San Francisco. It runs:—To the Osaka Asahi Shimbun. I have the pleasure as chief executive of San Francisco to join cordially with you in expressing gratification over the great achievement of modern science in establishing direct permanent wireless communication between the United States and Japan across the Pacific. This is indeed one of the marvels of our age of progress and the subject of the heartiest congratulations between our two countries. —Nov. 18th, Mayor Rolph, San Francisco.

Tin Dredging—An Ipoh Discussion.

Ipoh, Nov. 13.—At the F. M. S. Chamber of Mines meeting, Mr. A. C. Perkins, of the Malayan Tin Dredging Co., read an interesting paper on tin dredging which aroused the keenest discussion. Mr. Newman, manager of the Larut Tin Dredging Co., made the startling announcement that bucket dredging was not economical owing to the loss of a comparatively high percentage of tin over the tail end of the dredges. He said that gravel pumps were much more economical. Mr. Newman's statements are creating much talk in local mining circles as it is well known that a high percentage of the tin contents of the buckets are not recovered. —Malay Mail.

"My Brandenburgers."

Amsterdam, Oct. 22.—During the Kaiser's stay with the Army of the Crown Prince he reviewed the Brandenburg Division. According to the report which appeared in the Hamburger Nachrichten, the Kaiser addressed the troops as follows:—Comrades, I have come to you to bring you the greetings of your comrades at the Eastern front and to express my hearty thanks to the soldiers in the West who have, like men, fought with the same bravery and continual loyalty. I am especially pleased to be once more with my Brandenburgers. Everywhere the Brandenburgers have fought they have done so with distinction. I express my fullest recognition to the Division. May the Lord of Creation bless you all! May He be with you when you again go into battle! Then fight once more like Brandenburgers!

GENERAL NEWS.

The Salvage of the Emden. The salvage party, working on the wreck of the German cruiser Emden on Coosa Island, has salvaged two upper deck guns complete and about 15 tons of metal—brass and copper. The Emden is very small now—just half of her has gone. She broke in two, and the bow part is left, from the stem to the second funnel. She remains in the same position at the south end of the island, on the barrier, about 200 ft. away. —Exchange.

Outbreak of Fire in Higo.

A fire broke out at the Igouye Oil-oil Manufacture in Higashi Shirika Maru, Higo, yesterday afternoon, says the Kobe Herald of November 21. The flames spread rapidly and the factory was gutted in less than two hours. There was great anxiety for a time lest the flames should spread to an adjoining godown, which is filled with oil. Fortunately the firemen managed to keep the flames back. The loss is estimated to amount to ¥2,000,000. During the fire, a fireman named Katsuta Tatsuji was seriously injured. He was taken to a hospital. His injuries are not expected to prove fatal.

Mount Carmel in German Hands.

Amsterdam, Oct.—The Kokosche Volks-Zeitung reports from North Palestine that the Turkish Government two months ago handed over to the Germans the famous monastery on Mount Carmel, which, as it was under French protection, was seized by the Turks. The monastery is now occupied by German Carmelite monks.

Japanese Troops at Hankow.

Since the outbreak of the recent revolution, the Japanese Government has increased the number of Japanese troops at Hankow and built new barracks there for obvious purposes, says the Peking Daily News. The Provincial Assembly of Hupoh has wired to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs requesting that the Japanese Legation be requested to withdraw those additional troops from Central Yangtze Valley as their presence is illegal without the permission of Peking.

THE CABINET CRISIS.

However much or however little foundation there may be for the rumours regarding Cabinet reconstruction, the mere fact that they exist at all is a most hopeful sign, showing as it does that the people at home are very much less than satisfied with the half-and-half methods of warfare which the present Government is countenancing. No sensible person wants to see a general election, or even a wide Cabinet reconstruction if such can possibly be avoided; the country has enough on its shoulders already without needless political turmoil. Yet, without some radical change in the present administration how is the war to be ended in the reasonably near future? Better a dozen elections than the needless prolonging of hostilities.

One truth that stares all of us very boldly in the face is that the only politician who has proved himself capable of being the people's leader in a difficult position like the present, is Mr. Lloyd George. His conversion from Little Englandism and Liberalism of the loud-voiced order is one of the most remarkable happenings of our day. He has thrown politics and party feeling aside, has worked harder, perhaps, than any man in the Empire, and has proved that, in grip of the situation, he towers over all his colleagues in the Cabinet. To whom else, then, would a practical nation turn for guidance? Under the rule of Mr. Asquith a sickening policy of half measures has been followed, and many persons have had a voice in affairs who should have been silent. The occasion manifestly calls for what Mr. Lloyd George is demanding—a small War Council; and that made up of practical men. At present we have a group of theorists, all talking at one time, and all apparently thinking that talk will defeat Germany. Men like Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour may be—and are—quite excellent as Ministers in peace time; but to-day Britain wants harder stuff; in fact wants a little of the political and civilian element at the head of affairs as possible.

It is often said that, with a different Government, the war would have been ended by this time; and it is not difficult to fall in with this view if we bear in mind what the Cabinet has done—and not done. Two years and four months of war have gone by, and still the two points of paramount importance in war—man-power and the food supply—remain unsettled. Is not that in itself sufficient argument for the country's asking Mr. Asquith to resign? If other arguments be necessary, we have not far to look for them. The present Government has failed miserably over the labour question, and but for Mr. Lloyd George's restless energy, it would have failed over the munitions problem as well. As regards the blockade the Cabinet has allowed itself to be laughed at by every nation under the sun; for it could have starved Germany, and it has not done so. The multiplicity of the air raids at home, too, supplies a further proof of the Government's inefficiency, for these would undoubtedly have been checked long ago had reprisals been taken. It is due to the Government's loving kindness that thousands of alien enemies have been left uninterred, and free to spy, to blow up, and to give information to the enemy. One could, in fact, fill a book with a list of the delinquencies, negligences and ignorances of the men in whose hands Britishers have been fools enough to leave their highest interests. Weakness, muddle and self-seeking have characterized almost every act of theirs—and this at a time when we are fighting against a nation that understands only brutal methods. We want, and want immediately, a Cabinet that will pay Germany in her own coin; that will shrink from no measures—that are honourable, for bringing the Boche to his knees and punishing him—may be whether the peace-mongers and pacifists are shocked or not.

A Popular Composer.

Another of the "Victorians" has passed away from us by the death of Sir F. Paolo Tosti, which Renter mentions to-day. Tosti was in his seventieth year and had spent more than half his life in England. In recent years he wrote little; and of that little, certainly nothing will ever outdo his "Goodbye" in point of popularity. The song, unlike the novel, almost invariably takes a long time in finding favour with the public. The novel has its six months or so of popularity, and then, unless it is a ther unusually good or unusually idiotic, it is forgotten. The song, on the other hand, save in rare cases, creeps slowly and imperceptibly into favour, and ten or even twenty years after its publication one may hear it spoken of as "the latest." "Goodbye" was published in the early 'eighties, but it was not till about 1900 that it became universally recognised, not only as a "pretty" song, but incidentally as a very artistic composition, appealing alike to judges of music and to the general public.

Our Ricksha Coolies.

We are very glad indeed that another member of the public has been good enough to come forward and prosecute one of our extortionate ricksha coolies—and equally glad to see that Mr. Melbourne administered exemplary punishment. The prosecutor in this instance was a soldier who had been refused as a fare, the coolie happening to exercise a prejudice in favour of civilians. His reason for this preference he did not apparently intend to give, but it is not difficult to form a guess. We have more than once pointed out that persons whose dress preclaims them to be very limited in the matter of pocket money—e.g. priests and Sisters of Charity—are invariably singled out for avoidance by coolies, who take it for granted that such persons will pay no more than the strictly legal fare. Soldiers are evidently marked down in the same manner and for the same reason. This being the case we would suggest that, in addition to fining such coolies, it would be well if the magistrates would endorse their licences, so that, should they commit a second offence of this nature, they might be deprived altogether. Many of our coolies are still under the impression that they can do precisely as they choose in a British colony.

Nations and their Sins.

It is somewhat to be regretted that Bishop Norris, in his address at the City Hall last night, should have deemed it necessary to use such expressions as "Belgium, who is inferring now for her sins;" "think of Russia's treatment of the Jews and Poles;" etc. It seems to us that this reverend gentleman is in rather a hurry to account for the war. Belgium is suffering for Germany's sins, and for the sins of those who neglected to help her against the invader; and there, surely the matter might be allowed to rest. The same with Russia. Russia is an ally of Great Britain's and it is no business of ours whether she treated the Jews ill or well; nor is this a time to throw her past in her face. Bishop Norris is further reported to have said: "England, a nation known and blessed of God with privileges for these many years, and because she was being honoured and privileged above them all, she was being punished." Is it not almost time that we Britishers got rid of the belief that we and our country have been specially singled out by the Almighty for favours? Such a doctrine is a deal too Kaiserly. If—and we would not dream of denying it—Britain in great measure brought her present trouble on herself, at least let us give her the credit for having brought about her own greatness in the past as well. We fail to see where the question of privilege and Divine prejudice comes in; in fact, in many respects, Britain is to be pitied rather than envied.

Alice Memorial Hospital.
The Hon. Treasurer of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals begs to acknowledge with thanks the following donations to the funds of the Hospitals:—Brass and Iron Dealers' Guild, $80.

A Dangerous Enemy.
"He is only a very poor man, and I do not wish to prosecute him," said a Chinese who was asking Mr. J. B. Wood to allow a case of assault against a man to be withdrawn. He explained that he was out on the back by defendant. His Worship commented on the withdrawal of the charge.

Pick-pocket Sentenced.
While standing in a crowd at Hongkong, a Chinese felt a tug at his pocket, and, turning quickly, saw a man with his watch in his hand. He at once seized him and handed him over to the Police. Defendant said another man passed the watch to him. Mr. O. D. Melbourne sentenced him to a month's imprisonment.

Armed Robbery.
A report of an armed robbery has been made to the Police by Ng Kai, a married woman, of Kowloon City, who says that at 1.30 a.m. on Sunday four men entered her house. She shouted for help and one of the men, pointing a knife at her, advised her to keep quiet. The men then ransacked the place, stealing money and clothing to the value of $25 7/6.

Caught in the Act.
While the steam launch Kwong Ming was moored alongside Nelson Street Wharf Yacht, a Chinese was found by a seaman cutting the ropes of three anchors, with the intention of passing them to a man in a small boat. He was at once arrested and at the Magistrate's this morning was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

Ship Theft.
On leaving the docks at Hongkong, a Chinese was searched by the Indian watchman, who found secreted round his body a brass lock from a cabin door and a quantity of lead piping, which enquiries showed came from the s.s. Janinetta. The man was before Mr. O. D. Melbourne at the Magistrate's this morning and was sent to prison for a month.

The Old Story.
That he was given the opinion by a clansman who asked him to take it to the country was the story told to Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistrate's to-day by a Chinese found at the Kowloon Railway Station with two tins of opium in his possession. When asked if he could find the other man, defendant said he went away when he was arrested. A fine of $200, or three months' hard labour, was imposed.

The Colony's Health.
Last week there were no fewer than twenty-seven cases of small-pox notified in the Colony, of which 19 were fatal. The sufferers were all Chinese, and one case was imported. There were also seven cases of enteric fever, of which four ended fatally, the sufferers being one English, one American and one Chinese, and the rest Chinese. There were five occurrences of diphtheria (one Chinese, one Indian and the rest Chinese), of which three were fatal.

JOTTINGS BY THE WAY.

We are wondering what the N. C. Daily News intends its readers to understand from its recent headline: "Gallantry in the Air."

A contemporary's leader, on Saturday, informed us that many persons have been called upon "to realise that the touch of a vanished hand is a stern reality."—We imagine that this was penned under the benign influence of St. Andrew's Day, and that what was really in the writer's mind was the ancient and homely truth that there's many an honest heart beating under a Scots kilt.

Another interesting St. Andrew's Dayism is Mr. R. M. Dyer purchased a kitten given by Mrs. Milroy, for $50, and many other articles Scottish in character were sold.

A native paper is responsible for the assertion that a mandate bestows the title of First Class General upon Chan Kwing-ming.—"Cucullus non facit monachum!" (which is our best Cantonese for "Where did Chan Kwing-ming acquire the art of soldiering?")

"Manila Air Service," says last Monday's Telegraph.—Probably not a cold one, either.

"I venture to say also that the Chaplains of both branches of the Service are holding office on the various 'cater' committees," writes a local censor of military and naval morale.—Cinematograph patrons, who have been telling us that there is but one Chaplain, will be rather sick at this statement.

Talking about cinematographs, we read that moving picture entertainments are to be introduced into some of the Philippine galleons—and thus a new terror is added to imprisonment.

We were aware that Mr. Runciman had been a shipowner and a member of a Radical Cabinet, but a Hongkong contemporary has made him even worse, as you shall hear. "Mr. Runciman, addressing the hotel-keepers' (there's a poetical touch about that "keepers'") said he had been a Christmas menu which was wasteful even for peace time and was scandalous for war time."

The Koba Herald, in describing an attempted burglary which was averted by a dog's vigilance, says that the householder's attention was "attracted by the barking of a colie."—We rather think of having our office coolies taught to bark. They might then be able to wake us up when we fall asleep over the war telegrams, as we do infrequently do.

Our congratulations this week fall to a morning contemporary for announcing that "the favours of Miss Bepinsky is Professor A. Watchal," and to the losers in Queen's Road Central who, not having read in the Telegraph that the Sanitary Department was to be informed by the Government of their nightly dustbin prowls, still carry on the game without let or hindrance.

We look in vain through the National Mission's programme for any mention of a special address to lawyers, brokers—and pressmen.

We learn that the Police Reserve is starting a magazine of its own, and that the December number will contain an article by Ginger on local football—on condition that he is not unduly prejudicial in the matter of particulars, of course.

Navy v. Royal Engineers.

These teams met at Happy Valley on Saturday, but very little interest was evinced by the few spectators in the encounter, the records of both teams being rather poor. Indeed, the Navy have yet to win a game this season. The sailors have struck a really bad patch. Ill-luck has persistently dogged their efforts right through and continues to do so, Saturday's winning goal by the R.E. being the direct result of the ball striking the referee in the goalmouth when it would otherwise have sailed well up the field.

The Engineers turned out their strongest eleven, but many changes were noticed in the Navy team. Daniels and Newman, the regular left wing pair, not being available, places were found for Shean and May. The latter played well, but Shean was very poor. Godfrey started for the sailors, but R.E. were first away, weak play by Biggs at right-half letting Pearce and White go away, the inside men, shooting strongly on the run giving Crocker a hot one in the first minute of the game. R.E. dominated the play for a time, only the fine work of Gibb at left back keeping them out. After good work by White (essentially the test forward on the field), Townsend had a chance, but shot high and wide. The Navy at last broke away, Palmer racing through from Martin's forward pass, and beating Crocker for speed, scored with a low soft shot which the soldier's goalie should have saved easily. It was by no means a brilliant print, but it evoked loud applause from the small party of naval men present, it being the first goal the sailors have scored in senior football this season. For a time the kick-and-rush tactics of the Navy worried the R.E. defence, and, from Hopper's centre, Shean hit the inside part of the upright, the ball rebounding into play for Crocker to kick away. R.E. now asserted themselves, and Crocker, who was in rare form saved well from White and Scott. The sappers continued to press, but could not score, half-time arriving with the Navy leading by the only goal scored.

R.E. took up the running immediately on resuming, White being robbed by Gibb when in the act of shooting. The sappers kept up the pressure, mainly through the efforts of White and Pearce on the left wing. Biggs, the opposing half, being helpless against this clever pair. The Navy defence held out for a time, but at last White's efforts were rewarded, the inside-left scoring with a fast grounder which Crocker tried very hard to push behind, the ball just passing inside the post. It was a fine goal, and on the run of the play, was well deserved. May got away on the Navy left and, closing in, sent inches over with Wilkinson well beaten. From the goal-kick Scott burst through in the centre, and Corriah, in clearing the ball, kicked it hard against the referee. The leather rebounded to Scott, who transferred to White, for that player to beat Crocker at close range. The Navy men protested, with some justification it must be admitted, that the accidental stopping of the ball by the referee had affected the issue, but the goal was allowed.

For a moment things looked ugly, but a repetition of last week's "regrettable incident" was happily avoided. The final whistle sounded soon afterwards with the R.E. leading somewhat luckily by the odd goal in three.

"CROSSBARS."

Club v. R. G. A.

The Club had hard work to score a victory over an undefeated team in the R.G.A. So far as brilliancy of play went, there was not very much doing. Indeed, there were times when play was very dull indeed, but the fact that the teams were so well matched made up for a lot, and each side had to keep pretty busy to hold its end up. Goldenberg dealt nicely with a somewhat nasty shot from Saunders, while Tallant the Gannera from possibly losing a point when he overcame Walter and Chasels, who were getting uncomfortably close. When half-time arrived, neither team had succeeded in getting a point.

The Club forwards in the second half showed better combination than they had previously done, and the Gannera had to be exceedingly quick to save themselves. Halls was entrusted with an essay shot by the Gannera, but he made a hash of it. Every effort was made to stay the progress of the Club forwards, but McTavish was not to be deterred, and, darting through the defence, he scored a splendid goal. Fine runs on the part of the soldiers did not materialise, and the game ended with the score:—Club, 1; R. G. A. 0.

Athletics v. 87th Co.
A large crowd attended the match between the South China Athletic and the 87th Company. R. G. A. The Chinese started very well and early scored a goal. The Chinese were very quick, unlike their opponents, who took things too easily. In the second half, one more goal was scored by the Chinese, the game ending with the Athletic's 2 up and the R. G. A. nil.

H.K.C.C. v. Civil Service.
These teams met on the Club Cricket Ground on Saturday afternoon when the visitors had to acknowledge defeat by a very wide margin. Going in to bat first they were only able to knock up 93 against some exceptionally fine bowling. The Club's batsmen were in fine form, two of them scoring upwards of half a century. Light was falling when stumps were drawn, the score then being 230 for eight wickets. The scores were:—

"KISMET."

Story of the Play.

The next morning the not waiting for Schobera make her customary said "Finish the story the beggar: I am to hear the end of it," Schobera continued as any years Hajj had waited his enemy, and one at dawn he presented petitions to the faithful sought the Mosque of the in accordance with the Koran, and, amidst the Sheikh's awan, the blessings of Allah, and, whereupon Hajj, found and contemptuous a bag of gold to the and proclaimed his filled with mortification, and would have the gold, but, being of a cunning disposition, refused to use it as against this man who had him of his wife. Proceeded Hajj at a meeting for men only in the Chamber of Commerce room, City Hall, tonight, commencing at 6.30 p.m. Questions will be invited.

both incensed and rebuffed that she had cast longing eyes on a despicable beggar.

The alarm was given that there was a man in the harem, which attracted the attention of Mansur, who would have incontinently killed the intruder, but that he saw suspended from his neck the half of an amulet which led Mansur to suppose that Hajj was his long lost father. Forthwith he bent himself at his feet, and as he bent his head in filial obeisance, Hajj plunged a dagger in his back, and, catching him up in his powerful arms, hurled him headlong into the waters of the bath and gloated over his death struggles.

Thus did Hajj, the beggar, remove from the face of the earth his enemy and his son between the rising and the setting of a day's sun.

But there was still the Caliph's vengeance to fear, and although he had saved his daughter, Hajj, with all his cunning, could see no way of ultimate safety for himself. The great power of the Commander of the Faithful overshadowed him like a black cloud, and then came about a strange and wonderful thing to Hajj—the Caliph came to claim

Mansur as his wife and not till then did Abdull realize that she was the daughter of his would-be assassin.

To slay the father was out of the question, but Hajj was commanded to quit Bagdad before daybreak and to remain in banishment, whereupon the wily rogue arranged to go upon a pilgrimage to Mecca, there to wash in the well of Zemzen, the waters of which gushed out for the relief of Ishmael, when Hagar, his mother, wandered with him in the desert—not that the enormity of his crime, nor the blood which that day was on his hands troubled his conscience. He returned to his stone before the Mosque of the Carpenters, and, drawing his cloak around him, quickly fell asleep, and his stentorian snoring echoed through the night air and made the darkness discordant with the sound of swine.

"Truly a remarkable story," said the Sultan. "The conclusion," answered Schoberazade, "is still more surprising, as you would confess if you suffer me to live another day, and in the morning permit me to continue the relation."

The general booking for "Kismet" opened this morning, and as the advance booking on Friday and Saturday last was quite phenomenal, you are recommended to secure your seats without delay.

On the gala night the entire ground floor will be given up to $5 seats, and comfortable chairs will be provided instead of the old benches at the back. These back seats will be found preferable to any others for a spectator's view of the production.

THE NATIONAL MISSION.

The Opening Services and Meeting.

The week-end has seen the opening in Hongkong of the National Mission of Repentance and Hope. On Saturday evening Bishop Norris, who is the special missionary in connection with the movement, preached in St. John's Cathedral, while last night he took the ordinary services in the Cathedral, his discourses on each occasion bearing on the Mission.

Last night there was a well-attended mass meeting in the City Hall, over which the Rev. J. Kirk Macdonald presided. A most impressive address was delivered by Bishop Norris, on the words:—"Seek ye the Lord, and ye shall live"—Amos 5, vi. He dealt with the existing social anomalies at home, and, touching upon the war, argued that the belligerents were suffering for their sins. Then he applied the words of his text, saying those who sought the Lord would live.

"Why God doesn't stop the war?" will be dealt with by Bishop Norris at a meeting for men only in the Chamber of Commerce room, City Hall, tonight, commencing at 6.30 p.m. Questions will be invited.

Mansur as his wife and not till then did Abdull realize that she was the daughter of his would-be assassin.

To slay the father was out of the question, but Hajj was commanded to quit Bagdad before daybreak and to remain in banishment, whereupon the wily rogue arranged to go upon a pilgrimage to Mecca, there to wash in the well of Zemzen, the waters of which gushed out for the relief of Ishmael, when Hagar, his mother, wandered with him in the desert—not that the enormity of his crime, nor the blood which that day was on his hands troubled his conscience. He returned to his stone before the Mosque of the Carpenters, and, drawing his cloak around him, quickly fell asleep, and his stentorian snoring echoed through the night air and made the darkness discordant with the sound of swine.

"Truly a remarkable story," said the Sultan. "The conclusion," answered Schoberazade, "is still more surprising, as you would confess if you suffer me to live another day, and in the morning permit me to continue the relation."

The general booking for "Kismet" opened this morning, and as the advance booking on Friday and Saturday last was quite phenomenal, you are recommended to secure your seats without delay.

On the gala night the entire ground floor will be given up to $5 seats, and comfortable chairs will be provided instead of the old benches at the back. These back seats will be found preferable to any others for a spectator's view of the production.

FIRE BRIGADE BUSY.

Two Fires on Sunday.

The Fire Brigade had rather a busy day on Sunday, there being two rather serious fires.

At 10.30 a.m., the Brigade was called to 24, Sai Street, a house used as a medicine shop by the Kwong Chai Chong firm, and the first and second floors as dwelling houses. The building was gutted and the fire spread to No. 26. The amount of damage is not known.

Yau-mat was the scene of the other fire, the outbreak occurring at 19, Arthur Street, which was also gutted. The fire at one time was in danger of spreading to the adjoining house. The Brigade was sent for, but on account it was found that the Yau-mat firemen and police had the matter well in hand. The second floor is now a cigar shop, and a carefully dropped match or cigar was thought to be responsible for the conflagration.

AMERICAN POLITICS.

President Wilson's Message to Congress.

December 3, 4.50 a.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Washington says that the publication of the following message was strictly forbidden, until released telegraphically:—

President Wilson's message to Congress will probably be delivered on December 5, and will be the shortest on record. It deals exclusively with domestic affairs, mainly the regulation of railway labour on a basis of an eight-hour day, and advocates an amendment in the law authorising that labour disputes be fully and publicly investigated before a strike or lock-out can be lawful. The country cannot remain exposed to profound industrial disturbances for lack of additional means of arbitration and conciliation, which Congress could easily supply. A proposal whereby the working of the country's railways should not be stopped or interrupted by the concerted act of organized bodies of men, until a public investigation had been instituted for the purpose of explaining the whole question to national opinion, involves no new principle.

The President also recommends a law giving greater freedom of combination to those engaged in promoting foreign commerce than the present laws against monopoly permit. This opportunity may pass if there is any delay in action.

December 3, 4.00 p.m.

The Distinguished Service Order has been awarded Sub-Lieut. Edward Pulling and the Distinguished Service Cross to Lieutenant Egbert Cadbury and Sub-Lieut. Gerrard Fane, of the Naval Air Service, in recognition of the destruction of the Zeppelin on Tuesday on the Norfolk coast.

A RECENT SHIP'S FIRE.

OPENING OF "PALAVON" ENQUIRY.

The Question of the Court's Jurisdiction.

At the Marine Court this morning, the enquiry was opened into the circumstances surrounding the fire which broke out on the s.s. Palavon, while in dock for repairs at the Hongkong and Whampoa Docks on November 2.

The Court was comprised of the following:—Commander Beakwith, R.N., Commander Gibson, R.N., and Captain Walker.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin appeared for the Standard Oil Company, to whom the ship belongs, and Mr. H. W. Looker for the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company, Ltd.

Commander Beakwith, R.N., President of the Court, read a letter from Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Masters, stating:—"We understand that the time the fire broke out there was neither master, officers nor crew on board on the ship's Articles."

In opening his address, Mr. Looker said that this was an enquiry into the damage which had happened to a ship by fire at a time when there was neither master, officers nor crew on board, and when there was no master, officers, or crew on the articles.

Mr. Jenkin:—That is not correct. There are articles on board.

Mr. Looker, continuing, said he still maintained there were no articles on the ship, and there was no master, officers or crew on board. They were no articles on the ship, and there was no master, officers or crew on board.

mit to the Court was that under this Ordinance, Part 5, Section 19 must necessarily be read in a purely nautical sense. That the sense must be nautical was apparent from the Ordinance generally, and he would draw their attention to the case of Mao, which was reported in 46, Law Times, 1907. That was a salvage case, and had turned on the meaning of "on the shore." He cited this case as showing that in these shipping cases things had to be looked at from a purely nautical aspect only. His next submission was that the Court must be satisfied that the safety of life and goods had been endangered in navigation, and this had to be taken into consideration before the Court had any jurisdiction of investigation. He would refer them once more to the subsection which set out the question of the safety of life and property while in the course of navigation. This was emphasised by Sub-section 2 which dealt with the constitution of the Court, which, it pointed out, should be constituted by officers of the British Navy, officers of the British mercantile marine, and other persons of nautical skill or knowledge. It was clear therefore that the Court must consist of persons experienced in nautical questions—of experience to deal with the questions involved. Any casually, as was shown in the Ordinance, had always connected with it something showing that what had happened had been in the course of navigation. He thought it should be clearly understood that there were many cases where damage might well happen to a ship which could not in any possible way be connected with navigation. There were some circumstances which could not be by any means connected with navigation, and he would cite a case which was a case of a ship which was in the course of construction. The machinery was being lowered when the derricks gave way, and the machinery went through the bottom. In a case like that, there could be no possible question that the damage came under the Ordinance. The sole object of the Ordinance was to give power to a Court to enquire into the safety of life and property and there was no life or property threatened in this case. He submitted that the Marine Court was appointed to enquire into definite charges formulated as to incompetency, or misconduct against the captain, officers or crew. The Ordinance also said that the notice of the Court calling an enquiry should be sent to the master, but in this case

YESTERDAY'S TELEGRAMS.

AMERICAN PEACE SOCIETY.

December 1, 12.25 p.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Washington says that the League to Enforce Peace has, through its president, Mr. Taft, repudiated the speech of Jacob Schiff at its dinner on November 24, urging the League to take immediate steps to terminate the war. It says that Schiff spoke only for himself. The League is not a "stop-the-war" movement. It aims at a League of Nations after the war.

AMERICA AND MEXICO.

December 1, 12.25 p.m.

Reuter's correspondent at New York says the Americans have appointed a Governor of Santo Domingo and have established temporary military rule in consequence of the Republic's refusal to permit payment of the public debt and other obligations.

THE BALKAN STRUGGLE.

December 1, 12.05 a.m.

A Serbian official dispatch, dated Dec. 1, says that despite bad weather there has been fighting and shelling, notably at Gruniska and Sokol, where the fighting was hottest during the last few days.

The Serbians repulsed the Bulgarians north of Gruniska.

December 2, 12.30 p.m.

An Austrian communiqué claims that they broke the Russian resistance south-east of Pesti and south and east of Campolungo, and have captured many thousands of men and a large quantity of guns and war material.

It says the Russians continue to exert all efforts at Moldavia.

There is a most fierce battle east of Kozdivasari, where the Austrians gained further successes.

December 2, 3.40 a.m.

The Admiralty announces that the Bulgarian Coast Squadron and Naval aeroplanes on November 29 attacked and effected great damage on a seaplane base at Greviz. They carried out on November 30 a bomb attack on Doksanbo and also on a troop train at Poma, ejecting the engine men.

THE GREEK CRISIS.

December 2, 10.40 a.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Athens, writing on December 1, says that exciting scenes occurred at Athens before the announcement of the King's surrender.

The Greek troops attempted to prevent the Allies passing certain points and there were collisions. Rifle firing ensued and continued all the afternoon. There was also a lively fusillade between the Royalists and the Venizelists. Guns boomed at intervals, and it was said that the French were bombarding the hill behind the palace. Great panic prevailed.

December 1, 8.20 p.m.

A detachment of Allied troops landed at Piræus, at three o'clock this morning.

December 2, 6.15 a.m.

The "Daily Mail's" Athens correspondent, telegraphing on December 30, says that firing has begun near the Piræus railway terminus between French sailors and Greek troops.

There was panic in the city, crowds rushing into the streets. Shops are being shut.

Two French cruisers have entered Phaleron Harbour.

The "Morning Post" correspondent at Athens telegraphs that French, British and Italian troops have landed.

December 2, 9.30 a.m.

The King has agreed to surrender six batteries of mountain guns, on Admiral Fournet agreeing to immediately withdraw all his troops, except a guard of three hundred at Zappeion.

The arrangement has been referred to the Entente Governments.

CABINET CRISIS.

December 2, 1.00 p.m.

The papers are full of rumours regarding Cabinet reconstruction. They declare that at least the War Council will be reduced and reconstituted and that Sir Edward Carson will probably be joining it.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

December 2, 1.30 p.m.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports: We repulsed two small raids, which were attempted after heavy trench-mortar fire in the Souchez area.

December 2, 4.30 p.m.

A French official message reports "a calm night on the west."

We carried out minor bombings.

December 2, 12.40 a.m.

A Paris official report says that there has been moderate artillery and trench gun activity.

December 2, 12.40 a.m.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports reciprocal shelling in the neighbourhood of Guemercourt and on both sides of the Ancre, with considerable trench-mortar activity elsewhere.

MINERS GAIN INCREASED WAGES.

December 2, 1.40 p.m.

The Government has granted the South Wales miners' claim to a fifteen per cent. advance in wages.

TELEGRAMS.

[Reuter's Service to The "Telegraph."]

NEW ORDINANCE OFFICER.

December 2, 2.50 p.m.

It is officially reported that Major-General Farise, C.B., D.S.O., succeeds General Sir S. B. von Donop, K.C.B., as Master-General of Ordnance on Monday.

JAPAN'S FINANCIAL HELP.

December 1, 10.90 p.m.

Reuter says that a public issue has been arranged for £10,000,000 British Exchange Bonds in Japan with a view to getting dollars by remitting the proceeds to America. The issue will be for three years at six per cent., and will be at par value, with no collateral security.

THE RUMANIANS.

December 1, 1.45 p.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Rome states that the International Institute of Agriculture estimates the Rumanian wheat stock at 109,000,000 bushels. It is believed that the Rumanians will destroy what they are unable to carry off.

December 1, 5.35 p.m.

An Amsterdam message states that the Germans are disappointed at the absence of details of the alleged colonial booty captured in Rumania.

December 1, 11.50 p.m.

According to Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam the "Cologne Gazette" has published an unverified report as to Russians having arrived at Bucharest.

December 2, 6.15 p.m.

A Russian communiqué reports: South of Bukharest the enemy attacks were repelled.

The enemy were driven from Comana and Gostinari, which they captured yesterday.

In Dobruja we gained possession of the western part of the Cerna-Voda bridge.

December 2, 7.20 p.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd learns from private advice that the Russians, after fighting their way across the intervening heights, gained a footing at Kireldaba, where furious street fighting is proceeding.

The Germans, who occupy a number of houses, are resisting desperately, firing from the roofs and windows. The German have concentrated large reserves west of the town and are beginning to counter-attack.

December 2, 2.25 a.m.

A Rumanian communiqué says: In the Damovitz Valley we retired southwards.

Our troops were violently attacked in the Pitesci region but retired slowly.

We fiercely attacked the enemy positions at Dobridja, and passed the entanglements at some points.

THE AUSTRIAN TRAIN COLLISION.

December 1, 11.50 p.m.

In the Austrian funeral train collision sixty-six persons were killed, including the Civil Governor of Serbia. The majority were military. One hundred and fifty persons were injured, sixty seriously.

THE SINKING OF THE MARINA.

December 2, 3.30 a.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Washington says that the German submarine commander who sank the Marina cabled on Nov. 30 that he mistook the vessel for a transport.

Germany is ready to offer the United States amends if investigations satisfy.

THE MAN POWER QUESTION.

December 2, 3.30 a.m.

The Local Government Board has circularised the Military Tribunals to the effect that the Government has decided that every man under twenty-six years is more valuable to the forces than engaged in civil employment; therefore, they must not be exempted unless engaged in essential work of national importance.

The policy, momentarily, does not apply to agriculture, which is being specially considered.

It is added that the demand for eligible men above twenty-six is so great that exemption is not justified unless on the strongest grounds.

December 2, 3.30 p.m.

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Henderson, speaking at Northampton, said that we should accept the challenge of the German civilian compulsion, and organise our entire manhood and womanhood for purposes of the war. "Let us cease playing at this business."

The Hon. E. S. Montagu, Minister of Munitions, speaking at the Guildhall, said that nothing had happened to shake our unalterable resolve and unswerving confidence as to the ultimate issue, but every man and woman ought to be prepared to take his or her place in the struggle. Sacrifices had been made, but greater would soon be asked.

SCIENTIFIC INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH.

December 2, 3.30 a.m.

The Government is establishing a department for Scientific Industrial Research in Great Britain and Ireland, and is making a liberal grant towards its upkeep.

THE SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN.

December 2, 6.15 a.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Las Palmas says that the Dutch steamer Kediri has sunk. The crew of forty were saved.

V.C. HERO MISSING.

December 1, 7.10 p.m.

Major Hawker V.C., of the Flying Corps, is missing.
